The Brit Rock Film Tour is back for 2023 with another stunning line-up of the UK's best climbing and adventure films. Five exhilarating films capturing an array of hardcore action, pioneering spirit and some proper madness.

An aerial photograph of a rock climber on a large, light-colored rock face. The climber is wearing a pink shirt and a white helmet, and is positioned near a crack in the rock. The rock face is textured and shows signs of weathering. Below the rock face, there is a dense forest of green trees and a rocky ground surface. The overall scene is captured from a high angle, looking down at the climber.

GODDESS

OF CRAIC

GODDESS OF CRAIC

This film tells the story of rising trad star Freja Shannon. We join half-Swedish, half-Irish Freja in her ancestral homelands as she pursues her climbing goals for the season - 'Sista Bossen' E8 6c at the world-class granite climbing area of Bohuslan, Sweden and 'Snell's Law' E7 6c at the Burren on the west coast of Ireland. Freja is as affable as she is committed once on the lead, resulting in captivating and gripping footage that will leave your jaw on the floor.

The film also delves into Freja's past, where we learn of her less-than-glamorous journey to becoming a professional climber - and how she overcame her inner doubts to break through as a leading female trad climber and alpinist. Whippers, sends and Nordic power screams all-inclusive in this spectacular and entertaining film.

GOLDIES OF CRAIG

A large, craggy rock formation dominates the left side of the image, showing vertical fissures and a weathered surface. The rock is grey and sits on a steep, grassy slope. The grass is a vibrant green, and the slope descends towards the right. In the background, more rocky peaks are visible under a clear blue sky with a few wispy white clouds. The overall scene is a high-altitude mountain landscape.

SHINING STONES

A man in a green t-shirt and dark pants is climbing a rock face. He is smiling and looking towards the camera. He has a climbing harness and ropes attached to his waist. The rock face is dark and has some green moss or lichen on it. The background is a blurred view of the mountain and sky.

SHINING STONES

Climber Robbie Phillips chances upon a little-known mountain in the very far north of Scotland whilst driving from east coast to west. After some research, Robbie discovers the mountain is called Ben Loyal, and that climbing legend Simon Nadin has been developing a couple of lines at the crag. Simon tells him that there is something very special up there...

What Robbie finds at Ben Loyal is off the scale: endless bouldering, highballs, countless quality granite tors and buttresses with untapped climbing potential. But all this pales into insignificance compared with the main face, which holds the future of trad climbing on what is surely one of Britain's greatest cliffs.

A truly stunning film of hard new routing by Robbie and Simon in an extraordinary setting.

HELMCKEN FALLS

HELMCKEN FALLS

Emma Powell and Neil Gresham join the original pioneers of this unique ice climbing venue in British Columbia, Tim Emmett and Klemen 'Klem' Premrl once again push the boundaries of steep, sporty ice. After years of teasing, Tim finally invites his life-long friend Neil Gresham, along with top mixed climber Emma Powell to stoke up their pioneering spirit and develop some new lines at this surreal venue.

HELMCKEN FALLS

HARD GIT

A high-angle, top-down photograph of a climber ascending a vertical rock face. The climber is wearing a bright blue long-sleeved jacket, a black helmet with a yellow logo, and climbing shoes. They are positioned in the upper right quadrant of the frame, with their body angled towards the left. The rock surface is textured and greyish-brown. A blue rope is visible running vertically down the left side of the rock face.

HARD GIT

Controversial and never far from the news; climber Mat Wright goes trailblazing across the UK, making wild first ascents, hard solos and bold new lines. Loveable rogue and working-class hero MaWwΣT puts his money where his mouth is in this tour-de-force of hard climbing. After weighing up his time-verses-routes equation, Matt abandons an attempt of the infamous Rhapsody (E11) and sets off on a quest to climb new inspiring lines. He does not disappoint, with his energetic journey culminating in the first ascent of 'Magical Thinking' E10 7a - a heart-stoppingly dangerous route at Pavay Ark, Lake District.

HEADJAM

A man with a beard and spiky hair, wearing a floral-patterned short-sleeved shirt and climbing gear, stands on a cliff edge at sunset. He is holding a red climbing helmet in his left hand. The background shows a vast landscape under a warm, orange sky with a low sun.

HEADJAM

Filmmaker Alastair Lee turns the camera on himself in this deep introspective story of triumph through adversity. Perceived as a successful man with the perfect life, Al experiences unexpectedly dark times. Fearing he will lose everything, we watch a man on the brink claw his way from despair, using climbing and training to find peace and salvation.

Having never been the greatest of climbers, Al demolishes his inner punter - attempting to fulfil his potential by setting his sights on routes he's spent 30 years avoiding. Includes hard first ascents, calamitous trad leads and bold on sights.

Carnage ensues almost every time Al sets off on a lead in this gripping, hilarious, emotional and ultimately inspiring story of a man in struggle as he seeks to reconnect with himself. Adding to the riotous flavour of this production, Al asks the climbers he's working with to do the filming.
